How much money would you need five years from now to be truly happy?

So, how much money would you need five years from now to be truly happy? And, more importantly, how much are you willing to invest to make that a reality?

"A man without a goal is like a ship without a rudder."-Thomas Carlyle

You must set goals before you can get them.

Goal getting involves more than simply setting goals and hoping for success. These 3 specific behaviors have been proven to drive effective goal getting:

- Set specific dates for each of your goal (down to the day)
- Chunk down your goals into a series of smaller steps and set a specific deadline for each one
- Review your written goals regularly and measure your progress (adjust where needed and set the next goal and next deadline)

Go Big or go Home ...

Do not think "I just want to replace my job income."

That will not cause you to think and act any differently than you always have. Take that number and bump it up 10 X.

What this does - is shift your mindset into a whole different gear. You realize that you can not do that by working as you may be now. You can not do it by simply working harder.

You start to think in terms of leverage - finding systems and ways to be 10 x more effective with less effort.

Einstein said that insanity is "doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results."

BUSINESSSTARTIDEAS is different...Just give It a Try!
